

Please find below the links to some websites you may find useful when thinking about DT at home with your child.

If you have any suggestions of websites you have found useful, please do let me know.

<https://www.eathappyproject.com/at-home/>

Eat Happy is the initiative linked to Tesco and 'Farm to Fork'. On this page there are many useful recipes and activities associated with food preparation. The activities are fun to do and help children to become motivated in finding out where their food comes from.

<http://www.jamieshomecookingskills.com/skills.php>

Jamie Oliver's home cooking skills page provides you with a large number of videos to demonstrate a variety of food preparation skills. They are quick to watch and very informative.

<http://www.teachingideas.co.uk/subjects/dt>

The Teaching ideas website provides many ideas for various design projects that you can complete with your child at home.