

Tuesday
Using adjectives

Today, we are going to look at a wonderful book by Roland Harvey. In this book we take a trip to Crabby Spits.

Roland writes a postcard to his Grandma everywhere he goes but it appears that Roland has forgotten how to use adjectives to describe the wonderful things and places he sees. Can we help him?

Before we jump into it lets practise a little first.

Add an adjective into the sentences below.

- I walked on the _____ beach.
- The sun was very _____ and gave me sunburn.
- I must remember to apply a _____ layer of sun cream.
- Today I ate a _____ ice cream.
- I wore _____ shorts.

Don't forget, we can use two adjectives and separate them with a comma.

Example

- The soft, warm sand went between my toes.

Your turn.

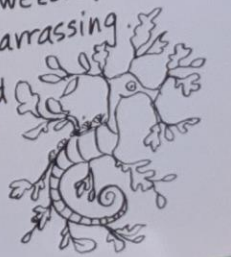

- There was a _____, _____ octopus in the rock pool.
- I stepped on a _____, _____ stone in the sea.
- I found a _____, _____ shell by the pier.

Take a look at picture on the next page. This is one of the pages from the book of postcards.

Can you write some sentences containing adjectives to describe what we see in the image?

Dear Grandma
We have been floating down the river and doing bombs off Sentinel Rock in the estuary. When we were snorkelling in the rockpool we saw seven starfish and a leafy seadragon and I drew you one. You almost can't tell they're not seaweed. I think dad has sunstroke because he dressed in seaweed and danced in front of everyone. It was so embarrassing.
A kid called James had sore feet and our friend made him sandals out of kelp! bye for now, Penny

How did you do?

- Don't forget to email some examples for us to look at.